GREAT SCIENCE SHARE FOR SCHOOLS

We will be running a FREE CPD session about using a range of strategies to develop pupils ability to ask specific scientific questions (with a focus on working scientifically) online on Monday 10th May 1.30-3.30pm. CLICK HERE to book

The Great Science Share for Schools is an annual campaign to inspire young people to share their own scientific questions and investigations. It aims to raise the profile of science in schools and communities, and encourage young people into science and engineering. Each year, the award-winning campaign encourages 5-14-year olds to share their scientific questions and investigations - from "how can we reduce plastic pollution?" to "can we stop bubbles popping?"

This year Professor Brian Cox is going to host a special event on climate and environment on Tuesday 15th June.
